A Life-long Co-learning Oasis in Sunshine North

In the journey of life, the pursuit of knowledge remains a constant. Beyond the kids and teenagers, it's crucial to acknowledge that 90% of emerging jobs now needs ongoing learning for fulfillment, and collaborative learning among seniors has proven to be powerful against post-retirement disorientation.

To enrich the emerging community, Luma, in Sunshine North, guided by the robust education sector and underscored by the demand of local residents, this project has the potential to catalyse a lifelong learning upon the heritage building. As hybrid mode of working and learning is taking dominance after the pandemic, together with the community's favour for flexible lifestyles, there should be a blend of digital courses and the physical realm, necessitating a dedicated space to foster synchronous sessions and adapt the collective spirit, and that space is believed to be a life-long co-learning precinct.
